

Academic Libraries and Integration of Services/Resources into Course Management Systems/Courseware: Bibliography

Bales, Aaron B. ; Taylor, Clara L. ; Havert, Mandy L. "Electronic reserves and WebCT: using courseware to implement electronic reserves at the University Libraries of Notre Dame." Journal of Interlibrary Loan, Document Delivery & Information Supply v. 11 no4 (2001) p. 37-50

Beagle, Donald. "Web-based learning environments: Do libraries matter?" College & Research Libraries 61 (4): Jul 2000 p. 367-379.

Carlson, Scott. "Students and Faculty Members Turn First to Online Library Materials, Study Finds." The Chronicle of Higher Education; Washington; 49(8): Oct 18, 2002, p. A37

Cohen, David. "Course-Management Software: Where's the Library?" EDUCAUSE Review Articles 2002.
<http://www.educause.edu/ir/library/pdf/ERM0239.pdf>

Argues that librarians need to get more involved in the selection, content development and resource access decisions being made regarding CMS.

Council on Library and Information Resources. "The Issue for Presidents and CAOs: The High Cost of Investment Disconnection." CLIRinghouse." Number 7, March 2002 <http://www.clir.org/pubs/cliringhouse/house07.html>
Getting libraries involved in the purchase decisions of a course management system.

Cox, Christopher. "Becoming part of the course: using Blackboard to extend one-shot library instruction at Worcester Polytechnic Institute." College & Research Libraries News v. 63 no1 (Jan. 2002) p. 11-13, 39.

Getty, Nancy K.; Burd, Barbara.; Burns, Sarah K. "Using courseware to deliver library instruction via the Web: four examples." Reference Services Review 28(4): 2000, p. 349-59.

"Integrating Library Resources into Blackboard" <http://www.library.eku.edu/faculty/blackboard.php>
Eastern Kentucky University's guide for faculty.

Librarians on Online Course Information
<http://www.aclrlnc.org/sigs/lociig/lociig.html>

LOCI serves as a forum for sharing information on how academic libraries are linking electronic resources with web-based course information software, assisting faculty in the use of these tools and promoting information literacy within this new teaching and learning environment." Check minutes of meetings for best practices and information as to how New England academic librarians are integrating their services into course management systems.

Machavec, George S. "Course management software: Where is the library?" Information Intelligence Online Libraries and Microcomputers. Phoenix; Oct 2001; Vol. 19, Iss. 10; pg. 1-2.

Editorial regarding the library as a missing element. The problem is in the software itself and Machavec makes suggestions for improvement. His final suggestion is that librarians become more proactive in working with faculty and software developers.

"OCLC White Paper on the Information Habits of College Students," June 2002, online at <http://www2.oclc.org/oclc/pdf/printondemand/informationhabits.pdf>

Olsen, Florence. "Getting Ready for a New Generation of Course-Management Systems." The Chronicle of Higher Education Dec. 21, 2001, p. A25.

Overview of CMS use. benefits and pitfalls. Possible increase of cost of CMS after market is established and tools become more sophisticated. Much CMS use is for supplementing traditional courses.

Roccas, Linda Jones. "Distance Learning and Distance Libraries: Where are they now?"
<http://www.westga.edu/~distance/ojdl/fall43/roccos43.html>

Overview of how the librarians at the College of Staten Island Library developed online library courses in Blackboard that coordinated with college courses.

Shuttle, Jerry. "The Role of the Academic Library in Online Education." Faculty Technology Leadership Program at East Tennessee State University. <http://ats.etsu.edu/ftl/professionalOutreach.htm>

Winship, Ian and Austin McCarthy, Margaret Home (Learning Resources Department), Malcolm Bell (eLearning Advisor). "Guidelines for integrating electronic library resources and Blackboard" Version 1: June 2002.

<http://www.unn.ac.uk/central/isd/bbguide1.htm>

Information on types of materials integrated and brief case studies.

Zemon, Mickey. "The librarian's role in portal development." College & Research Libraries News, Chicago; Jul/Aug 2001; Vol. 62, Iss. 7; pg. 710.

Librarians expertise on copyright in regard to electronic documents in CMS addressed.